Introduction

Marmoxan Solid Surface Panels: These panels are homogeneously composed, forming a complete sector of solid surface material made from acrylic and other substances. This composition imparts both aesthetic appeal and high quality to the panels.

Marmoxan panels are characterised by being non-porous, entirely hygienic, and resistant to the formation of bacteria and fungi on the surface. Additionally, they exhibit resistance to harsh chemicals, making them highly recommended by leading experts in laboratory and hospital design worldwide.

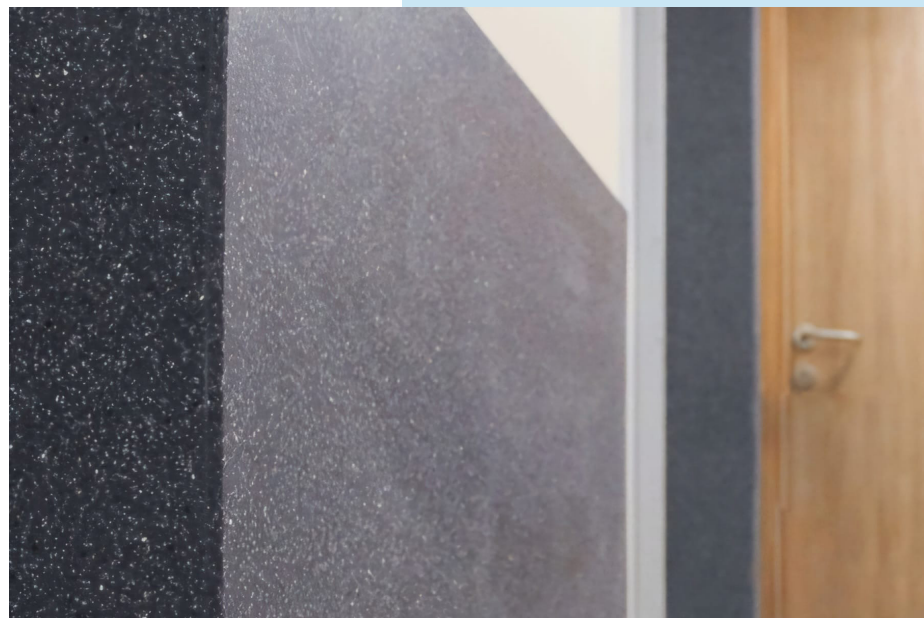

As one of the best disease-resistant products, Marmoxan is entirely suitable for indoor use in homes, restaurants, hotels, hospital wall cladding, kitchens, and various other applications.
